A short walk down the paddock is a 8m x 12m x 4.5m (clearance) shed with concrete floor and internal height sufficient to install a hoist. Power runs from the main meter to the shed but it's not yet connected. The main meter box has a reverse plug allowing a portable generator to be plugged in to replace mains power in the case of outage.

A winter creek with dam that is home to some wild ducks, bisects the lower portion of the block. The creek upstream and overflow downstream offer some typical and very pretty Australian bush vistas. The block is part cleared and part native bush, the latter hosting a plethora of winter wild flowers and reverberates with the songs of numerous birds.

This is a well set up and choice lifestyle block. Well worth a look.
