55 Sixth Road, Toodyay

Beautiful! Secluded! Country Views!

Small acreages like this 10ac rural residential block are very popular at the present time. Cheap at the asking price and an excellent block for your future home, this block is a beauty!

In summary, it is:

- * off the main road, private and secluded
- * symmetrical and therefore easy to build on and layout your infrastructure
- * fairly level with a slight rise to the east
- * cleared and ready for your development plans (new home, orchard, weekender...)

The neighbouring blocks are either pasture or well presented, new homes (no cabins, shacks or blocks with old car bodies). You could build anywhere on the block (within the usual boundary offsets) and from the high point in the centre and to the east of centre there are very pleasant views through 270 degrees.

The soil is typical wheatbelt red loams on clay - just add water and it will grow anything so a good block for an orchard or agricultural hobby before building your future home.

At this stage water supply would be from above but get a local diviner to find an underground source for you. Power is nearby but not
